Tripura's celebrated chemical scientist Dr Arijit Das has added another feather to his already swollen by securing recognition from famous WikiEducator based in Otago Polytechnic, Dunedin, New Zealand as Author for his contribution to the scientific discipline of chemistry and his achievements in the field of innovation. He is now authorized to create online resources for learners in the field of chemical education. The WikiEducator was launched in 2006 and is supported by the non-profit 'Open Educational Resource (OER) Foundation' which is an online community for the collaborative development of learning materials. These materials provided by the WikiEducator are free to reuse, adapt and share without restriction.

After being approved as author Dr Arijit Das who is an Assistant Professor in BBMC college of Agartala now has included five chapters of chemistry in the WikiEductor so far.

Earlier in 2020-2021, Dr Das's methodologies and formulae had been indexed in the digital library, 'Education Resources Information Centre (ERIC)', United States Department of Education in the form of 09 articles and Library of University of California, Davis, US in the form of 08 articles.

Dr Arijit Das's formulae based educational tools have also been indexed in the famous City college of New York (CCNY) in 2017 & 2019.

In September 2019, his one book 'Innovative Mnemonics in Chemical Education: A Handbook for Classroom Lectures' was published by Cambridge Scholars, UK, and indexed in the British Library, London.

Dr. Das has been a member of prestigious American Chemical Society (ACS), NY, US since Dec 2013 in the category of Chemical Education. His inclusion as Author in WikiEducation and other achievements have been appreciated by the Vice Chancellor of MBB university, Professor Satyadeo Podder, Registrar Sumanta Chakraborty and Controller Jyotiprasad Debbarma in formal messages.

'Prof. R.K.Nath, Dean of Science Tripura University and Director of IQAC Prof. B.C.Tripathy also sent congratulations to Dr. Das for such achievement'.
