By Our Correspondent

Agartala, Jun 08, 2013 : As part of his initiative to help students clear national and state level joint entrance exams for admission to higher educational institutions, Tripura's renowned chemistry teacher Dr Arijit Das has launched an online link in the popular social networking site 'Faceook'. The newly launched link in 'Facebook' is designated as 'Dr Arijit Das online chemistry' by logging on to which students of chemistry can pose questions and obtain answers online besides engaging in regular interaction.

Dr Das who is the head of the department (HOD) of chemistry in government-run Dharmanagar College has distinguished himself by devising three new and original formulae for easier and less time-consuming study of three important chapters of chemistry. 'My only purpose is to help students study and learn chemistry well so that they can easily clear national and state level joint entrance exams on the strength of their higher knowledge of chemistry' said Dr Das. He added that students can have the benefit of posing questions and obtaining answers thrice a week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.
